Report Overview

Synthetic Barium Sulfate is an inorganic compound characterized by the chemical formula $BaSO_4$. It is a white, odorless, and insoluble powder that is widely used in various industries. This product is synthesized through a chemical reaction involving barium and sulfate ions, typically produced by reacting barium chloride with sodium sulfate or by the precipitation method. Synthetic Barium Sulfate is known for its high density, opacity, and chemical stability, making it an ideal material for applications such as a contrast agent in medical imaging (particularly for X-ray imaging), a filler in plastics and rubber, a pigment in paints, and a weighting agent in drilling fluids for oil and gas extraction. It is also used in the glass and ceramic industries due to its ability to increase the refractive index and opacity of these materials. The product's safety and effectiveness in these applications are well-established, and it is considered non-toxic and environmentally friendly compared to other heavy metal compounds.
