Report Overview

Tufted and Needle Punched Carpets are two distinct types of carpets that are commonly used in residential and commercial settings. Tufted carpets are created by pushing yarn through a primary backing material, which is then secured with a secondary backing material. This process results in a durable and visually appealing carpet with a distinct texture. Needle punched carpets, on the other hand, are produced by using a needle punching machine that pushes yarn through a primary backing material, fusing the fibers together to create a strong and stable carpet. This method allows for a higher density of fibers, resulting in a more robust and resilient carpet. Both types of carpets offer various benefits, such as comfort, insulation, and aesthetic appeal, and are chosen based on specific needs and preferences in terms of durability, cost, and design.
