Report Overview

UHT Whipping Cream, or Ultra High Temperature Whipping Cream, is a dairy product that has undergone a specific pasteurization process to extend its shelf life and ensure food safety. This cream is made from fresh milk, which is heated to a very high temperature (typically around 135-150°C) for a short period, followed by rapid cooling. This process, known as UHT treatment, effectively kills bacteria and other microorganisms, allowing the cream to be stored unopened at room temperature for an extended period. Once opened, it should be refrigerated and consumed within a few days. UHT Whipping Cream is characterized by its high fat content, typically around 35-40%, which gives it a rich, creamy texture and makes it ideal for whipping, topping desserts, and use in various cooking applications where a stable, high-fat cream is required.
