BMI View: Although Canada, as an energy exporter, has been negatively affected by low oil prices, we believe the outlook for the food, drink and grocery retail markets remains reasonably attractive. There are notable opportunities, such as organic foods, that should continue to fare well. We expect companies to continue expanding at a cautious rate over the next year.

Latest Updates & Industry Developments

On a per capita basis, food sales in local currency are forecast to grow at a compound annual rate of 3.7% over the 2015-2020 period.

The non-alcoholic drinks category, which includes sub categories like coffee, tea and juices is forecast to record compound annual growth of 4.1% in local currency value terms over the 2015-2020 period.
