BMI View: A continuing increase of overall economic activity will help to boost total household spending in Egypt throughout 2016. After the terrorist attacks in 2015, the country's tourism sector will suffer from a short-term decline in tourist inflows. However, improvements in the labour market will lead to higher household revenues and spending. Large retailers, such as LuLu Group and MAF Group, will continue their push into the country as its MGR sector modernises rapidly.

Key Views And Developments

Dubai-based shopping centre developer Majid Al Futtaim Group has announced the plan to build the third City Centre mall in Egypt at an investment of above USD500mn. The new shopping centre will have 103,500 square metres (sq m) of retail area and is planned to open in Q1 2019.

LuLu Group, an Abu Dhabi-based hypermarket operator, is moving forward with a plan to open 10 new LuLu hypermarkets in 2016-2017. The expansion will cost the retailer USD300mn.

Saudi Arabia's Abdullah Al-Othaim Markets Company, is a large player in the MGR segment and is investing USD38mn in Egypt to open retail and wholesale stores in the country.
