BMI View: Iraq's ailing domestic landscape will dampen investor confidence in the country's pharmaceuticals and healthcare sectors over at least the next few years if not longer. Although the government remains committed to healthcare provision, economic and security headwinds will mean international support will remain key to ensuring the population's access to healthcare. Indeed, the domestic sector's capabilities will remain limited for the foreseeable future. The Iraqi government's ability to attract investment and boost spending in the pharmaceutical and healthcare sector remains closely linked to oil prices and, in turn economic stability, both of which remain highly volatile.

Healthcare: IQD12.69trn (USD10.87bn) in 2015 to IQD13.40trn (USD11.33bn) in 2016; +5.6% in local currency and 4.2% in US dollar terms. Forecast broadly in line in local currency terms and revised upwards in US dollar terms from last quarter.
