BMI's Uganda Defence & Security Report for Q3 2014 examines the country's strategic position in the African region and the wider world. It provides an overview of the contemporary geopolitical events facing the country and the challenges it may face in the future.

This year, BMI expects Sudan to spend up to USD373mn on defence. For the remainder of the forecast period (2015-2018) we expect Uganda to spend an average of USD558.9mn on defence, and for the country to continue increasing its defence expenditure annually. The final two years of the forecast period, 2017 and 2018, will see the country's defence expenditure reaching USD588.5mn and USD685.3mn respectively. In 2014, we expect the defence trade deficit to remain at USD300,000. For the remainder of the forecast period, we expect Uganda's defence trade deficit to average USD200,000 annually.
