By end of 2000, the production of primary aluminum in China has been 2,817,000MT/year, next only to that of in USA and Russia. The Chinese people have shown to the world the fast pace in developing the aluminum downstream products by fully utilizing the domestic resources. The aluminum fabrication has become one of the most important industries in China.

Aluminum extrusion profile, or extrudate, being an items used widespread in construction, industries and other areas, has been growing rapidly in the past. Though Chinese aluminum extrudate industry is characteristics of its large production and low quality, the potential ability of Chinese people to improve the production technology and the enhanced position of Chinese material among the international market have got the acquiescent from oversea businessman.

The present report is to offer better understanding on the Chinese manufacturers of aluminum extrudate and uncover the actual situation therein, aiming to illustrate what this industry is today and how it will go in the years follows.

The aim of this report is:

- To find the major Chinese aluminum extrudate manufacturers in details, including background, aluminum extrudate production situation, ingot sources, associate companies, etc.
- To find the direction and strategy of Chinese manufacturers for the USA market, if possible.
- To find the role that the Chinese government play in the aluminum extrusion industry.

Thus this report is consist of two parts:

- The main body of market report thereafter.
- The appendix I, in a separate file, the situation of top 90 manufacturers in China.
- The appendix II, also in the separate part, the notices of some primary suppliers mentioned in the appendix I.
