Dimethoate is a highly poisonous agrochemicals. It was one of the largest organic phosphorus items in China. China began to limit the application of dimethoate for many years. The annual production is 5,000-6,000MT. But it seems that the production quantity has been shrinking recent years and the demand of this product is decreasing in the recent year.

This report is briefly summarized the dimethoate industry in China, presented in a question-answer format, focusing on:

- the producers?
- the capacity and the utilization?
- the quality specification?
- export situation?
- the end use segment?
- the production volume?

It's found that there are 8 major dimethoate producers in 2002, but only 4 in the market (technical and EC grade) in 2003. Among them only two producers are very active in the technical grade material.

Of the technical grade material, Most of the dimethoate (80-90%) is for export. Some of the technical below 95% are sold in domestic market, but its sales volume is small. In the export of technical grade material, Chongqing Pesticide, Jiangsu Dafeng and Fujian Sannong is strong. Additionally, the manufacturers are profiled by listing their contact info, background, products & specifications, export situation, etc.
