Abstracts

As a product with small consumption volume in China, grape seed extract has witnessed a declining price in recent year. What is the reason behind the declining trend? What is the current production of grape seed extract in China and does Chinese grape seed extract sell well both in domestic market and in the global market? This report tries to answer these questions from the aspects of production methods, product categories, summary of Chinese producers, consumption and raw material supply. Major end users are listed and top 5 active producers are profiled in the report.
