Abstracts

With over 15 years efforts, China has become a major Monoisopropylamine (MIPA) supplier in the world, and about 50% of its production is exported to more than 30 countries/regions nowadays. China is not only a major production base of MIPA, but also a large consumer.

Now the ban on glyphosate 10%SL in China along with steady demand of glyphosate IPA salts in the world bring new business opportunities for MIPA market, since glyphosate 41%IPA is the best substitute of glyphosate 10%SL.

This report presents a comprehensive view of Chinese MIPA from aspects of production, technology, raw materials, import & export, consumption, etc., and also provides answers to the key issues of Chinese MIPA industry as follows,

Who are the major players? How about the production distribution?

How about the export situation of Chinese MIPA? Who are the major export destinations? Who are the active exporters? How about the export price change?

At present, in what field MIPA is applied in China? What is the development trend of MIPA from 2010 to 2014?

What is the key factor influencing the price? What is the future trend of MIPA price?

You can also figure out the analysis of driving forces and barriers for Chinese MIPA industry, as well as the forecast on MIPA development in China from 2010 to 2014.
