Abstracts

Oxyfluorfen, an effective and broad-spectrum herbicide containing diphenyl-ether, can be widely used in the fields of rice, cotton, peanut, and vegetables and orchard to control monocotyledonous plants and broadleaf weeds.

As one of the largest producers of oxyfluorfen in the world in terms of capacity, China has seen increasing capacity of oxyfluorfen in recent years. However, China is also facing great challenges at the same time. For example, the supply shortage of raw materials and high production cost are important factors restricting oxyfluorfen industry's sustainable development in China.

Presenting an in-depth analysis into China's current oxyfluorfen market, this report attaches importance to the following parts:
