Abstracts

With the demand growth, the output value of sugar alcohol industry had a rapid growth, which reached about USD 1,770 million and has become the second largest product, following starch sugar in the sweetener industry.

Meanwhile, with food and health care product growth, the consumption structure of sugar alcohols industry has changed gradually, the consumption proportion of sorbitol had declined and that of xylitol, maltitol, mannitol and others has risen in these years.

Since the government has improved the environmental protection standard and the market competition became more and more fierce, a lot of small enterprises were washed out, and the sugar alcohol industry was then controlled by some large enterprises

How will the sugar alcohol enterprises adjust their strategies? What are the opportunities in China's sugar alcohol industry?
