This iDRD (Insight-based Data-Rich Deliverable) is part of the Health Care and Applications market and subscriptions. This insight discusses and analyzes trends and dynamics in the US health care applications market including types of applications that are driving changes in health care delivery, as well as how HIPPA is affecting applications in health care. The health care industry includes establishments primarily engaged in furnishing medical, surgical, and other health services to persons. Establishments of associations or groups, such as Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs) primarily engaged in providing medical or other health services to members, are included as are insurance providers and hospices. Applications consist of business expenditures on server and client-based custom-coded and packaged applications, including productivity, Enterprise Resource Planning and security applications. Hosted or rented applications do not fall in this category of IT spending, but are considered "Outsourcing & 3rd Party Services." Forecasts are from 2005 through 2010 and include annual growth rate. The Expert Guide for this DRD is Stephanie Atkinson.

Sources: Compass Intelligence's segment and market forecasts, which include business expenditures, market demographics, and usage and adoption statistics are built using multiple sources, including proprietary Compass Intelligence research. These sources include, but are not limited to, secondary research, government data and statistics (e.g. Department of Commerce, Federal Communication Commission, Bureau of Labor Statistics and US Census Bureau), primary research, vendor-based research and in-depth interviews with key decision-makers, where relevant. Compass Intelligence selects data sources to provide greatest degree of perspective on each market or segment, in addition to the highest level of data accuracy, stability, and consistency over time.
