Executive Summary

Cannabis is a genus of flowering plants which includes three varieties or species: Cannabis sativa, Cannabis indica and Cannabis ruderalis. Cannabis is used for a variety of purposes such as for fiber, for seed and seed oils and for recreational and medical purposes. Cannabis can be consumed by using various methods such as smoking, vaporization or consumed in the form of edibles, cannabis oils and tinctures or as raw cannabis. The cannabis plant contains various active chemicals known as cannabinoids which are found with other active chemicals such as terpenoids and flavonoids. Cannabis is consumed by recreational users for a lot of purposes including pain relief, better sleep, relaxing or for the treatment of anxiety, Alzheimer's disease, multiple sclerosis, glaucoma and depression.

The global legal cannabis market has been segmented on the basis of type, chemical derivatives, end-use, product type and medical applications. On the basis of type, the market is segmented into medical and recreational. Chemical derivatives of cannabis includes tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), cannabidiol (CBD) and hybrid. Various end-users of the legal cannabis market are pharmaceutical industry, research and development centers and others. On the basis of product type, the legal cannabis market is segmented into buds, oil and tinctures. Cannabis also has some medical applications and is used in the treatment of various diseases such as chronic pain, arthritis, migraine, cancers and other diseases.

The global legal cannabis market has witnessed continuous growth in the past few years and is projected to grow even further during the forecast period (2018-2022). The market is expected to be driven by various growth enhancing factors such as rising investments in the cannabis industry, growth of vaporizer market, growing number of medical cannabis patients, rapid cannabis legalization, rising cannabis consumption etc. However, the market is not free from challenges that are hindering its growth. Some of the major challenges faced by the market are lack of banking and financial services, complex distribution and marketing process and high taxes.
