Executive Summary

There are different online auctions with different rules and procedures for bidding and winning. The most common types of online auction are English Auction, Reverse Auction, Penny Auction, Dutch Auction, Vickrey Auction, First-Price Sealed-Bid Auction, and All-pay Auction.

The online auction market can be segmented on the basis of product type (Fine Art, post War & Contemporary, Jewels & Watches, Cars, Decorative Arts & Furniture, Electronics, and Others); business model (Business to Business (B2B), Business to Consumer (B2C), and Consumer to Consumer (C2C); platform (Web-based, and Application-based), and end user (Corporate, Faith-based Organizations, Sports Organization, School & Universities, Associations, and Others).

The global online auction market has increased significantly during the years 2019-2020 and projections are made that the market would rise in the next four years i.e. 2021-2025 tremendously. The online auction market is expected to increase due to rise in the use of internet for auction, soaring urban population, rising millennial population, increase in sales of art-based goods through online auctions, etc. Yet the market faces some challenges such as security issues, auction fraud, etc.
