The services of a tour operator reach to the customer through various distribution channels. These distribution channels can be offline as well as online. The online distribution channels include brand website, email, mobile, internet booking engine, social media and online travel agents. On the other hand, offline distribution channels consist of retail travel agents, franchise offices of tour operators and handling agents.

The global online tour operator market is expected to grow at a healthy rate during the forecast period (2017-2021). The growth is expected on account of many factors, such as an increase in disposable income, increasing international inbound and outbound tourism and aging demography.

However, the market also faces some challenges, which includes increase in the number of terror attacks, heavy taxes imposed on the tour operators and seasonality dependence. Digital travel, evolution of eco-tourism and rise of adventure tourism are some of the latest trends in the global online tour operator market.
