Executive Summary

The mitral valve allows the passage to oxygenated blood from left atrium (LA) to the left ventricle (LV) and prevent the backflow of blood back into the left atrium. Mitral Regurgitation (MR) is a valve disorder where during heart contraction, blood leaks backward through the mitral valve. This reduces the amount of blood pumped through the body, which leads to declining heart function and heart failure, over the time.

The causes of MR disease are congenital heart disorder, rheumatic fever, trauma, any other heart disease, radiation therapy, etc. The treatments available for MR disease are surgical repair, drug treatment and replacement. There are two types of MR: Degenerative MR (DMR) and Functional MR (FMR). The DMR and FMR can further be subdivided into many types.

There are different approaches for replacement surgery, depending upon the type of MR disease. The TMVR market is in very early stage at this moment, with many companies developing their TMVR devices. The commercial TMVR devices are expected to be launched in next 2-3 years.

Currently, the global TMVR market is in early stage, but is expected to increase at high growth rates during the forecasted period (2017-2022). The global TMVR market is supported by various growth drivers, such as aging population, high number of cases of congenital heart defects, rheumatic fever, low survival rate of surgical repair in FMR patients, etc. Yet, the market faces certain challenges, such as, complexity in design, success of repair surgery in DMR patients, high number of patients not referred for surgery, etc.
