Sciatica Understanding

Sciatica: Overview

Sciatica also known as sciatic neuralgia or sciatic neuropathy—is mild to intense low back pain that travels into the left or right leg. This pain can be made worse by certain movements such as twisting, bending, or coughing. Sciatica affects 10 to 40 percent of the population, classically around 40 years of age. Sciatica is caused by compression or irritation of one or more of the five sets of nerve roots in the lower back. Pain from sciatic nerve compression may feel dull, sharp, and/or create a burning sensation. It may also be accompanied by intermittent shocks of shooting pain beginning in the buttock and traveling downward into the back and/or side of the thigh and/or leg (also known as radiating pain).

'Sciatica - Pipeline Insight, 2021' report by DelveInsight outlays comprehensive insights of present scenario and growth prospects across the indication. A detailed picture of the Sciatica pipeline landscape is provided which includes the disease overview and Sciatica treatment guidelines. The assessment part of the report embraces, in depth Sciatica commercial assessment and clinical assessment of the pipeline products under development. In the report, detailed description of the drug is given which includes mechanism of action of the drug, clinical studies, NDA approvals (if any), and product development activities comprising the technology, Sciatica collaborations, licensing, mergers and acquisition, funding, designations and other product related details.

Report Highlights

The companies and academics are working to assess challenges and seek opportunities that could influence Sciatica R&D. The therapies under development are focused on novel approaches to treat/improve Sciatica.

Sciatica Emerging Drugs Chapters

This segment of the Sciatica report encloses its detailed analysis of various drugs in different stages of clinical development, including phase II, I, preclinical and Discovery. It also helps to understand clinical trial details, expressive pharmacological action, agreements and collaborations, and the latest news and press releases.

Sciatica Emerging Drugs

STX-015: Sollis Therapeutics

STX-015 is an Alpha 2 adrenergic receptor agonist being developed by Sollis Therapeutics for the treatment to sciatica. Currently, it is in Phase III stage of clinical trial evaluation.

SP-102: Scilex Holding

SP-102 is the first non-opioid novel injectable corticosteroid gel formulation product in development for the treatment of lumbar radicular pain (sciatica), and it contains no preservatives, surfactants, solvents, or particulates. If approved by the FDA, the SP-102 formulation will be available in a pre-filled syringe and will be administered by epidural injection. Based on preclinical and clinical studies, it extends the residency time at the site of injection and does not show the safety concerns that led the FDA to warn against using other injectable steroid formulations by the epidural route of administration.
