Research Summary

Car genuine leather refers to upholstery or interior components of a vehicle that are made from real, natural animal hides. Genuine leather is sourced from the hides of various animals, including cows, pigs, and sheep. It is highly valued for its durability, luxurious feel, and distinctive aroma. Genuine leather undergoes a tanning process to preserve and soften the animal hides, making it suitable for use in car interiors. Compared to synthetic materials, genuine leather offers a unique texture, breathability, and a natural appearance that can add an elegant and premium touch to the vehicle's cabin.
