Research Summary

Dog and cat foods are specially formulated commercial products designed to provide the essential nutrients required for the proper growth, development, and maintenance of dogs and cats. These foods are tailored to the dietary needs of each species, taking into account their distinct nutritional requirements. Dog food typically includes a balance of proteins, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, and minerals, while cat food is higher in protein and includes specific nutrients like taurine, which is essential for feline health. They come in various forms such as dry kibble, wet canned food, and specialized diets for different life stages or health conditions. Proper nutrition is vital for the well-being of pets, and selecting appropriate, high-quality dog and cat foods can contribute to their overall health, vitality, and longevity.

The major global manufacturers of Dog and Cat Foods include Mars, Nestle Purina, J.M.
