Research Summary

Galvanized rebar is a type of reinforcing steel bar that has undergone a galvanization process to enhance its corrosion resistance. Rebar, short for reinforcing bar, is commonly used in construction to strengthen and support concrete structures. In the galvanization process, the rebar is coated with a layer of zinc through hot-dip galvanizing or electroplating. This zinc coating provides a protective barrier, preventing the steel beneath from corroding when exposed to harsh environmental conditions or corrosive substances. Galvanized rebar is especially beneficial in structures where traditional steel reinforcement might be susceptible to corrosion, such as in marine environments or areas with high humidity and salt exposure. Its corrosion-resistant properties contribute to the longevity and durability of reinforced concrete structures, making it a preferred choice in construction projects where resistance to rust and corrosion is essential for structural integrity.

The major global manufacturers of Galvanized Rebar include Commercial Metals Company, Nucor, ZINKPOWER, Debrunner Acifer Bewehrungen, Tata Steel, TG, Madhav KRG Group, Xiamen New Steel Metal Products, Jenco Group, etc. The global players competition landscape in this report is divided into three tiers.
