Research Summary

Gelatin capsules are pharmaceutical or dietary supplement capsules made from gelatin, a protein derived from animal collagen. These capsules consist of two halves, often referred to as the cap and the body, which encapsulate powdered or liquid substances. Gelatin capsules are widely used in the pharmaceutical and nutraceutical industries to deliver drugs, vitamins, and other active ingredients in a convenient and easily ingestible form. They come in various sizes and colors, and their relatively quick dissolution in the digestive system allows for efficient absorption of the enclosed contents. While gelatin capsules are widely accepted and utilized, alternative capsule materials such as vegetarian or plant-based capsules made from cellulose derivatives are available for individuals with dietary or religious restrictions. Gelatin capsules remain a popular choice due to their ease of manufacturing, stability, and compatibility with a broad range of pharmaceutical formulations.

The major global manufacturers of Gelatin Capsule include Capsugel, Qualicaps, ACG ACPL, Suheung, Farmacapsulas SA, ERAWAT PHARMA LIMITED, Dah Feng Capsule,
