Research Summary

Knitted fabrics are textiles made by interlocking yarns in a series of loops, creating a flexible and stretchable structure. Unlike woven fabrics, which are made by interlacing two sets of yarns at right angles, knitted fabrics are formed by continuously looping a single yarn back and forth. This process allows for greater elasticity and breathability in the resulting fabric. Knitted fabrics can be made from various fibers, including cotton, wool, polyester, and blends of different materials. They come in a wide range of textures, thicknesses, and patterns, making them versatile for various applications such as clothing, home textiles, and industrial uses. Knitted fabrics are commonly used in garments like t-shirts, sweaters, socks, and activewear due to their comfort and flexibility. They are also used in household items like blankets, towels, and upholstery, as well as in technical textiles for medical, automotive, and sports applications.

The major global manufacturers of Knitted Fabrics include Guilford Mills (Lear), Gehring Tricot, Luxury Jersey Srl, Rebtex Inc, Macra Lace Company, Jason Mills, MDB Texinov, William J Dixon, Clover Knits, SAS Textiles, Krishna Overseas, Fakir Fashion, Loyal
