Research Summary

Plastic corrugated cardboard, often referred to as corrugated plastic or coroplast, is a versatile and durable material commonly used in packaging and signage. Unlike traditional corrugated cardboard made from paper, plastic corrugated cardboard is constructed from twin-wall plastic sheets, usually polypropylene or polyethylene, with a fluted or ribbed core sandwiched between two smooth outer layers. This design provides strength, rigidity, and resistance to water, chemicals, and UV radiation. Plastic corrugated cardboard is lightweight, making it suitable for applications where weight is a critical factor. It is widely used for packaging, especially in industries requiring reusable and durable containers. Additionally, its weather-resistant properties make it popular for outdoor signage, advertising displays, and temporary outdoor structures. The material is known for its versatility, allowing for easy cutting, folding, and printing, making it adaptable to various applications across industries.

The major global manufacturers of Plastic Corrugated Cardboard include Intoplast Group, Primex Plastics, Karton, SIMONA, DS Smith, Distriplast, Sangeeta Group,
