Research Summary

Shop primer is a type of protective coating applied to steel surfaces during the manufacturing process to inhibit corrosion and enhance the durability of steel products. It serves as an initial layer of defense against environmental elements such as moisture, humidity, and atmospheric pollutants, helping to prevent rust formation and surface degradation during storage, transportation, and fabrication. Shop primers typically contain corrosion inhibitors, pigments, and binders that adhere to the steel surface and provide a barrier against corrosion. This primer is usually applied to steel surfaces shortly after fabrication in industrial settings such as steel mills, fabrication shops, or manufacturing plants, before additional layers of protective coatings or paint systems are applied for further corrosion resistance and aesthetic purposes. Shop primer plays a critical role in preserving the integrity and longevity of steel products, ensuring they remain in optimal condition throughout their lifecycle.

The major global manufacturers of Shop Primer include AkzoNobel, Sherwin-Williams, PPG Industries, Nippon Paint, Kansai Paint, Jotun, BASF, Hempel, Chugoku Marine Paints, Fixall (ICP Group), Rust-Oleum, Tnemec, BESA, Zhuzhou Feilu, Kelly-Moore
