Research Summary

Slack wax is a semi-refined petroleum wax obtained during the processing of crude oil. It is a mixture of paraffin wax, oil, and other hydrocarbons, with a relatively high oil content compared to fully refined waxes. Slack wax is produced by solvent extraction or de-oiling of wax distillate, resulting in a product with a soft, pliable texture and a melting point ranging from 40 to 70 degrees Celsius (104 to 158 degrees Fahrenheit). It finds various industrial applications, including as a blending component in candle manufacturing, as a water-repellent coating for paper and cardboard products, as a base material for wax emulsions used in coatings and polishes, and as a lubricant additive in the production of tires and rubber products. Additionally, slack wax can be further refined through processes such as sweating or deoiling to produce fully refined paraffin wax for more specialized applications.

The major global manufacturers of Slack Wax include Shell, Exxon Mobil, BP, IRPC, Pertamina, H&R Gruppe, American Refining Group, Iranol Oil, Thai Oil, CNPC, Sinopec, etc. The global players competition landscape in this report is divided into three tiers.
