Abstracts

The global AFH market saw a weak performance during 2020 and 2021. The coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic forced consumers to stay in their homes and reduce the use of public places. However, a global recovery in AFH demand is looming, although its pace will depend on the state of the pandemic. The recovery brings opportunities as well as challenges, including those that will accelerate the shifts affecting the AFH market pre-COVID-19, such as the use of robotics in some sectors of the economy.
