Abstracts

In 2022, metal beverage cans continued to increase their pack type share in alcoholic drinks in Mexico. This is because metal beverage cans are lightweight and easy to handle, making them convenient for on-the-go consumption. They are portable and suitable for outdoor activities, parties and events. Cans can be easily stored in coolers or carried in bags without the risk of breakage. They are generally less prone to breakage than glass bottles, which are the dominant pack type, reducing the risk...
