Abstracts

The fading of COVID-19 has been a significant turning point for Japanese consumers, who have been leaving their homes and therefore driving the return of footfall in town centres. In May 2023, the Japanese government changed the legitimate classification of COVID-19 as an infectious disease from level 2 to 5. Level 2 meant high infectiousness, importance and risk, which require notification to the local government when infected. Level 5 means lower risk, but is still a disease that the nation ob...
