Abstracts

Trading was difficult in 2020, with people staying at home as much as possible in order to avoid being infected with COVID-19. In 2021, with the virus still circulating, though society opened up, there was not as much socialising as usual, and a significant portion of the working population continued to work from home. As a result, there as muted demand for apparel and footwear. In addition, continuing high inflation dampened consumer demand somewhat and in 2021 footwear and apparel registered a...
