Abstracts

Prepared baby food saw an improvement in its packaging unit volume growth rate in 2021, as consumer mobility started to increase again, with parents resuming their active lifestyles, to an extent, in this year. Given they no longer had as much time to cook baby food at home as they did in 2020, prepared baby food proved to be a convenient option. This benefited the packaging unit volumes of thin wall plastic containers and aluminium/plastic pouches used in prepared baby food in 2021. However, w...
