Abstracts

The population aged 0-11 was estimated to be more than 15,700,000 in 2016, below 20% of the total population. This implies a relatively strong consumer base for baby and child-specific products. Nevertheless, total value generated in this category remained very low mainly because of the low level of awareness and shopper preference being limited to basic offerings. In addition, the birth rate continued to decline as many young couples prefer to have no children or only one child despite governme...
