Abstracts

Driven by natural increase, Bahrain's population is set to expand rapidly in 2021-2040, as net migration rates become neutral after 2022. Ageing is set to accelerate with the median age remaining elevated in a regional context, therefore consumer trends may be impacted. Urbanisation will continue to be swift, and Manama will remain the dominant city. Bahrain's appeal as a consumer market should continue to grow but elevate levels of inequality will persist.

Euromonitor's Bahrain in 2040: The Future Demographic report analyses factors influencing national consumer expenditure.
