Abstracts

Manufacturers called 2009 one of the toughest years they have faced, with the later part of the year particularly tough as the full-blown recession hit Lithuania. The declining purchasing power of consumers changed their shopping and eating habits. Industry sources noticed that Lithuanians started to keep bread and other baked goods in the fridge, which indicated that a single loaf of bread is no longer consumed not in a couple of days, but in a week or even longer. Price became the leading...
