Abstracts

In 2022, total packaging volumes for baby food recorded solid growth. Flexible plastic remained the leading pack type for baby food, followed closely by folding cartons, and despite their already high base, they still witnessed above-average growth in packaging volumes in this year, with folding cartons seeing the best performance. Folding cartons are easy to open, reseal, and dispose of, which is convenient for parents on-the-go. This convenience factor aligns with the busy lifestyles of many M...
