Abstracts

BFY reduced sugar soft drinks account for most sales of BFY beverages in Canada, and these products witnessed stronger growth in 2020, with consumers drinking more at home due to the shift from foodservice to home consumption due to COVID-19. Sales also benefited from the closure of schools and colleges, with children spending more time at home studying. With the easing of restrictions in 2021, BFY reduced sugar soft drinks saw a slight decline, but sales remained above the pre-pandemic level.
