Abstracts

The move towards perceived healthier better for you packaged food has not been a major priority for many South Africans during the pandemic in 2021 as the economic impact of COVID-19 has forced many consumers to prioritise value-for-money offerings and fresh food, especially since the average unit price of better for you packaged food has continued to rise. As such, while current value sales are witnessing impressive growth, overall demand is either slowing or declining for many categories.

Euromonitor International's Better For You Packaged Food in South Africa report tracks the developments of health-associated product types and the healthy-option positioning of competing brands across different food sectors. It provides the latest retail sales data 2017-2021, allowing you to compare health and wellness categories with each other or in the context of the total market for a sector. It identifies the leading companies, the leading brands and offers strategic analysis of key factors influencing the market- be they new product developments, legislative context or lifestyle influences. Forecasts to 2026 illustrate how the market is set to change.
