Abstracts

Brazil, once one of the fastest-growing economies in the world, is experiencing the worst recession in decades. Insights into how household spending patterns are changing after the economic recession can help companies identify opportunities and succeed, despite weak income and expenditure growth. Euromonitor International forecasts that consumer spending growth in Brazil will remain weak through to 2030, as the average household income is not expected to overtake its 2014 level before 2025.

Strategy Briefings offer unique insight into emerging trends world-wide. Aimed squarely at strategists and planners, they draw on Euromonitor International's vast information resources to give top line insight across markets and within consumer segments. Written by some of our most experienced analysts, they are designed as provocations for senior management to use in their own forum, allowing them to stand back and reflect on the behaviour and motivation driving global markets today and tomorrow

Data coverage: market sizes (historic and forecasts), company shares, brand shares and distribution data.
