Abstracts

There is growing awareness among consumers of the health benefits of butter. For many years, margarine was consumed with the thought that it is better for the heart. However, in recent years, a number of publications have refuted this and claimed that butter is, in fact, a good fat and does not have a negative effect on the heart, whereas margarine is harmful. This research has had an impact on the Saudi young generation, being more connected globally thanks to growing internet penetration, and...
