Abstracts

Butter and spreads witnessed dynamic price increases in 2022, driven by global price inflation and an increase in global demand. As a result, some grocery retailers decreased their profit margins in order to absorb some of these costs. Moving into 2023, there has been some roll back in retail prices of butter and spreads, although overall prices are still high and unlikely to return to the levels seen in 2021. The foodservice channel also continues to put some pressure on retail volume sales as...
