Abstracts

With consumers eating and cooking more at home due to Coronavirus (COVID-19), retail sales of cheese in Asia Pacific have continued to grow, even seeing a slight sales spike in 2020. With per capita consumption rates still generally low in the region, there is great potential for further growth in cheese sales in Asia Pacific, although the cheese consumption habit still remains very much at a nascent stage in many countries in the region, particularly when compared to most Western nations.

Euromonitor International's Cheese in Asia Pacific global briefing provides a comprehensive overview of the Dairy Products and Alternatives market, providing insight on sales and market potential, retail distribution and company and brand shares. Analysis identifies emerging geographies alongside growth opportunities in the most developed, highest value countries. It also offers strategic analysis of the key trends shaping the industry and consumer demand, such as health and wellness, sustainability, the evolution of eating occasions, in addition to ongoing considerations of convenience and value-for-money in the post-pandemic world. Insight into how these trends are shaping demand informs forecasts to 2025, clearly indicating how the market is expected to change.

Product coverage: Baby Food, Dairy.

Data coverage: market sizes (historic and forecasts), company shares, brand shares and distribution data.
