Abstracts

Under growing scrutiny, packaged food leaders were focused on elevating their offering to fend off competition from private label and new brands with strong nutritional and ethical profiles. Yet the COVID-19 outbreak disrupted this state of play globally. Companies such as Nestl?, Unilever and Kraft should benefit from consumers' return to familiar brands and shelf stable and frozen staples. In addition, e-commerce has become vital in many markets, and direct-to-consumer offers potential.

Euromonitor International's Competitor Strategies in Packaged Food global briefing offers an insight into to the size and shape of the Packaged Food market, highlights buzz topics, emerging geographies, categories and trends and identifies the leading companies and brands. It also offers strategic analysis on driving packaged food industry trends like health and wellness, premiumisation, convenience and value-for-money and how those trends influence factors like new product developments, packaging innovations, retail distribution and retail pricing both historically and into the future.
