Abstracts

Mexico's housing market maintained growth momentum in 2018 amid the central bank's decision to hike its key rate twice during the year to 7.75% – the highest rate in more than nine years. Growth was partly fuelled by better economic conditions and improved consumer confidence once the electoral process was completed. Proof of this was the 9% nominal increase seen in the average house price throughout the country in 2018, according to Sociedad Hipotecaria Federal (SHF). The change in focus of Inf...
