Credit card number of transactions and transactions value increased in 2017 due to the growing e-commerce trend and economic growth, where consumers use their credit card to purchase goods and services online. Although there was an increase in the use of credit cards, the overall value share in e-commerce remained stable, meaning that there has not been a major behavioural shift in how Dutch consumers use their credit cards. As such, over the forecast period, although the number of credit card t...
