Abstracts

In 2020, as people spent more time at home due to the COVID-19 pandemic, this was beneficial for the retail consumption of dairy. However, in 2021, due to the easing of the COVID-19 restrictions, to an extent, a large part of the population returned to outside activities. This weakened the at-home consumption of dairy products, such as butter and spreads. As a result, the packaging unit volumes of pack types used in butter and spreads, such as flexible aluminium/paper, benefitted greatly from th...
