Abstracts

In spite of rising costs and prices in recent years, sales of dairy products and alternatives have continued to grow in real value terms in Latin America. The essential nature of products like cheese has helped maintain demand for them, while sales of baby food have been boosted by a return to normal working habits post-pandemic. The high inflation has seen volume sales struggle in recent years, but the forecast period is expected to see positive growth in both volume and value terms.

Euromonitor International's Dairy Products and Alternatives in Latin America 2024 global briefing provides a comprehensive overview of the Dairy Products and Alternatives market, providing insight on sales and market potential, retail distribution and company and brand shares. Analysis identifies emerging geographies alongside growth opportunities in the most developed, highest value countries. It also offers strategic analysis of the key trends shaping the industry and consumer demand, such as health and wellness, sustainability, the evolution of eating occasions, in addition to ongoing considerations of convenience and value-for-money in the post-pandemic world. Insight into how these trends are shaping demand informs forecasts to 2027, clearly indicating how the market is expected to change.
