Abstracts

The hot tropical climate in Cameroon especially during the dry season leads to a lot of sweating. Temperatures average around 36 degrees on a daily basis during the dry season, with this season lasting for around six months. Sweating is thus inevitable. Cameroonians are constantly looking for ways and means to combat sweating due to the hot tropical climate. Deodorants are one of the products most Cameroonians use to stay refreshed during the course of the day. Be it for work, outings, or celebr...
