Abstracts

After recording strong growth in 2022, sales of many dermatologicals in 2023 are weakening. Declining disposable incomes due to elevated inflation and higher interest rates are eroding the interest of Spaniards in spending on perceived non-essential products or leisure activities. As a result, a number of local consumers are either reducing the frequency of their purchases, or switching from brands to generics or private label. This is especially the case for topical germicidals/antiseptics.
