Abstracts

Dietary supplements continues to see steady current value growth in 2023, in line with the performance seen in 2022. However, since the beginning of 2022, there has been an explosion in the price of ingredients (often imported) and energy costs and soaring inflation in general, with this being reflected in an increase in unit prices. This in turn has resulted in a drop in volume sales across most categories within dietary supplements.

Euromonitor International's Dietary Supplements in Belgium report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the market at a national level. It provides the latest retail sales data 2018-2022, allowing you to identify the sectors driving growth. Forecasts to 2027 illustrate how the market is set to change.

Product coverage: Combination Dietary Supplements, Herbal/Traditional Dietary Supplements, Non-Herbal/Traditional Dietary Supplements.

Data coverage: market sizes (historic and forecasts), company shares, brand shares and distribution data.
